Pre-payment of loans

Personal Loans

For Pretermination of Personal Loans prior to Maturity

The Break Funding Cost is computed as follows:

$(\text{Ref 1} - \text{Ref 2}) \times (\text{amount prepaid}) \times (\text{No of Days prior loan maturity divided by } 360)$

Where: Ref 1 – Appropriate reference rate on Drawdown Date
 Ref 2 - Appropriate reference rate for the remaining days prior to Loan Maturity

The following are the applicable reference rates:

Reference Rate on Drawdown Date (REF 1)

Cost of Fund (COF) rate before intermediation on the loan account during drawdown date. This is found Refer to the Loan Scheduler of the account in HLS under Cost of Fund Rate.

Reference Rate on Pre-termination Date (REF 2)

Published daily PDST-R1 (MART2 rates). To get the rate, calculate the remaining days until loan maturity and refer to the "Days to Maturity" column.

Sample computation

- 1 Client takes up a Php100,000 loan on 01June07 for 24 months. Ref 1 is based on COF rate at time of drawdown. Let's assume cof rate is at 9%
- 2 On 29July08 he decides to prepay the outstanding balance of P50,000, his Ref 2 is 6.6329% based on today's (29 July 2008) MART2 rate as of 11:45am.

Break Funding Cost is computed as follows:

$(9.00\% - 6.6329\%) \times (\text{Php}50,000) \times (307 \text{ days}/360 \text{ days}) = \text{P}1,009.31$

Ref 1	7.00%
Ref 2	6.63%
Amount Prepaid	50,000
Days left before maturity	307
No of Days in a year	360
