Drive positivity in times of change

The world urgently needs to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to limit global warming to

Accelerating green innovation can support sustainable outcomes while achieving long-term capital growth.

This would benefit carbon-heavy sectors, such as power generation, infrastructure and transportation.

Higher energy costs, tight supply of fossil fuels and record profits of energy companies all emphasise the need for sustainability.

ESG investing can help finance the transition to net zero and provide returns on a longer-term horizon.
